

Wolfgirl & antworld

Oriko opened her eyes after a good night of sleep, she had been dreaming about the things she wanted to do with the new toys that she had brought to herself just recently, building it and gathering them had been a pain but considering all the fun to be had it was definitely well worth it. She stretched her arms up in the air and let out a long drawn out yawn, and for her tiny captives in the miniature town she had built for them it sounded like thunder was about to come down upon them. Which was kinda true.

She slowly sat up in her bed and looked over to the case that seemed like it was able to hold an antfarm, which is what it is supposed to have in it if used properly, though Oriko just smirked as she picked up a small object from the nightstand and threw it over and into the 'antfarm' of hers.

Inside the casing all the tiny inhabitants could hear was a loud woosh followed by an even louder crash when the eraser landed and completely destroyed one of the houses there. Some of them ran over to help any survivors from the house, although the horrible sight of splattered bodies was in full view they still had hope one of the about ten people living in it had survived.

Oriko listened to the tiny screams coming from the inside of the casing as she got out of bed, her fluffy wolf tail swishing a little from side to side, it seemed she was feeling rather playful this morning and this of course meant doom for the tiny inhabitants. The loud thuds of her feet hitting the floor could be heard, this was the only warning that she was coming for the tiny ones.

Soon her face was looming above the antfarm, two giant ears twitching on her head, she was pretty adorable looking with her long brown hair, reaching down to her waist. She was a rather well developed wolfgirl in her higher teens, a smirk could be seen on her face now as she leaned it closer.

"Hello tinies, ready for another day? Oh, there are not so many of you left, seems I have to go to your world again to catch a couple more of you." She said with a small giggle right after. One of her hands moving into the town now and she grabbed three people, they didn't even have a chance to run away from her.

The three small ones squirmed in her tight grip, she lifted them all the way out of the casing now and held them in the palm of her hand, the tongue sticking out her mouth and sliding across her lips, it seemed she wanted a little bit of a morning snack before starting with the fun itself. Her lips parted in front of the tinies, strings of saliva connecting her upper and lower rows of teeth and the lips.

"Aaaah...Hope you all taste well." She stated as she began moving the hand closer to her mouth now, rolling out her saliva covered tongue in preparation, and without much of a warning when the hand was close enough, she tilted the hand and dropped all three of them right into the mouth. The tongue pulling them deeper inside. On the inside they were swished and slobbered in saliva with the help of the tongue, smacked into the cheeks.

The ones remaining in the antfarm stared up in fear as the loud gulping sound could be heard, the wolfgirl had swallowed the three and it seemed like she was still hungry, though there must have been luck in the air as the giantess turned around and left the room for a while now. Of course, this did not last.

Upon her return she was holding a platter in her hand with various leftovers from last night's dinner, smirking down to the tinies she placed the plate next to the case, letting all of them see the giant masses of food, at least to them, laying there. Meanwhile the wolfgirl simply teased and taunted by poking her finger against the glass, even sticking out her tongue every now and then.

"All for me, none for youuu...Or maybe?" She winked as she picked up her fork and taking a large amount of the food into her mouth, making a pleased sound and even face just to show off how delicious it were. Though at the second go she accidentally dropped the fork, the massive thing landed inside the case and the food on it crashed and splattered about, some of it actually destroyed one of the fragile houses inside the case.

"Oh, seems you guys got some anyways...Well, lucky you eh?" She said and reached down to pick up the fork, not noticing one of the tinies had been stuck to it, the others tried to yell up to her about it but she simply ignored them, the poor tiny was eaten with the next load of food.

It took a few minutes until she had completely finished her breakfast of leftovers, pushing the plate aside she just placed her face right in front of the antfarm case again, grinning with her sharp fangs showing she once more started to tap against the glass. "Wanna come out? You should try and climb out...If you can." She was laughing a little, normal to her it was thundering to the smaller ones inside the casing.

She did take notice of a special one in there though, white hair, blue shirt, it was mostly the hair that was making him much different compared to the others. Most of them had either black, blonde or heck even red hair, but the silver...That was something new to her. The wolfgirl moved her arm, the hand slowly coming down upon the tinies, most of them cowering in fear now though she had only one in her sight.

It did not take too long for her gigantic fingers to wrap around the small silver haired person, pinching him rather tightly between them and lifting him up in the air now, even out of their little area so she could place him on the desk next to it, her eyes still fixated on him.

"Strange hair color you got, tiny. How would you like to be the special tiny out of the ones in the little town there? I will let you climb on my body." She stated with a smirk. The silver haired tiny seemed a bit scared of these notions however, starting to step backwards. This could have been a chance for him to escape if he hadn't been a mere inch, or heck even smaller. Getting down from the desk would mean death, and trying to outrun the wolfgirl probably would end rather badly as well.

"D-Don't call me tiny!" The smaller person squeaked up to the giantess wolfgirl, who actually ended up giving him a rather amused look considering he dared to talk back to her at all. "The name is Benedikt! You better use it!" He continued. The wolfgirl letting out a small giggle, moving her giant hand closer and poking him over with one of her fingers.

"Oh my, are you threatening me little one? You do realize I can just...Squish you under one of these fingers, right? Or perhaps I should do something even worse. Now that I was gonna be so nice and let you explore my body too, you should watch your tone...Tiny!" She said this in a rather angry tone now, the tiny Benedikt gulping and stepping backwards with an apologetic expression.

"Anyways...Come here you." She said, her fingers picking him up once more now, standing up to her full height once more she walked over to her bed. Sitting down in it she placed Benedikt next to her on the soft sheets of her bed.

“Where do you wanna begin eh? Actually, I will choose for you.” She said almost immediately after asking him. Picking him up once more she pulled out the collar of her shirt now, grinning as the rather sizable breasts were revealed underneath him, making the tiny Benedikt blush slightly. It was getting better of course as she let go of him. Freefalling downwards and crashing right into the soft breast, bounced between the two orbs and getting stuck in her cleavage.

Oriko made a couple of cute sounds when the tiny form could be felt wiggling between her breasts, moving her arms a bit she pressed her breasts together, squishing him more between the orbs. His arm sticking out as he tried to get a grip to pull himself out. “W-Wait...Noooo...” His tiny squeaky voice could be heard from underneath her shirt.

After quite a while of struggling, squishing and almost being crushed he fell out from her cleavage, ending up grabbing onto her erect nipple now, and of course this could be considered heaven to someone like him, resulting in him starting to lick and nibble a bit on the nub, resulting in more cute sounds from the giant wolfgirl.

“Good boy, continue doing that, I like it.” She said with a little giggle now. Though she wanted more than simple nibbles on her nipple, with one hand she poked on her breast, making the whole orb jiggle and shake for the poor boy. It did not take long for him to lose his grip and fall further down her shirt. She was only wearing a pair of panties underneath it and he bounced onto her thigh and into the front of her panties, her legs were crossed leaving him in the crevice.

Her tail swished from side to side, the wolfgirl closing her eyes now and thinking about all the things she could use these tinies for in the future. While in her own thoughts she kind of lost track of where Benedikt was moving around, especially as he started moving across her panties, the fabric keeping him from actually being felt against her crotch.

He didn’t exactly wanna be her little sextoy and tried to escape, bad move. Falling down from the thigh he landed in her tail, a giant mass for black fur that was moving, he had to hold on tightly or else he would be thrown off and most definitely splattered against some of her furniture or one of the walls. He was pretty much lost in there and as the wolfgirl lifted her shirt to try and find the tiny one she got kind of confused.

“Ah...Where did he go? Oh well, I can always just go grab myself a new one.” She said with a giggle, giving up the search for Benedikt without even really trying she got out of her bed again, walking over to the antfarm once more and tapping the glass like she had done before. “Heeeey...You little ones...Watch out down there!” She yelled out to them, the thundering voice making most of them place their hands over their ears as her gigantic face leaned over the town.

“Here I come!” She said, something could be seen moving around in her mouth, and after a short while of this she parted her lips, a massive glob of saliva fell down, landing on top of one of the houses and crushing it completely now, the ones inside of it had been smothered by the saliva as well.

“Think of it as a small present from me...Now, I need to go to school.” She said to the little ones in the antfarm as she pointed towards the clock on the desk. “So I will play more with you later, okay?”

Without further ado she could be seen leaving the room to find herself some clothing. Benedikt was getting the honor of coming with her to school however seeing as he was still holding on for dear life to her tail. This was gonna be a long day for him for sure.