

Ahri the giant foxgirl

Ahri and Sona would be running through the team jungle as fast as they could to escape a Lulu ulted Shyvana, considering that makes her almost twenty feet taller than the two of them after all. Ahri grabbed Sona's hand and pulled her into one of the bushes near the ancient golem and hoped that Shyvana would not be coming in there to be looking for them, and for the moment it seemed their wish came true as the giant sized half-dragon girl ran right past them and disappeared, well not without ripping down a couple of trees and such on the way of course and it seemed the ult was about to wear off anyway. With a little sigh of relief Ahri would glance over to Sona and smile, "It seems we got away this time, jeez that dragongirl can be scary if she gets ulted by Lulu." Sona would give a nod in return in agreement and speak into Ahri's mind, "Yes... Especially for us squishy kind of champions."

The two of them would eventually move out of their hiding spot, Ahri pointed towards the golem and tried to give Sona a signal to help her out killing it as the blue buff by this ancient golem could always be useful for a mana using person like Ahri. The two of them would start attacking it with Ahri doing the hard damage while Sona kept her healed up, and with a smile Ahri would reach out and give Sona a gentle stroke on the shoulder for the good work defeating the golem, the blue buff would be surrounding Ahri now in a rather beautiful fashion and she was once more ready to battle. However this time the buff seemed to add another little thing to itself, and while Ahri did not notice this at first Sona would since she was walking behind her back to the nearest tower.

As they reached the tower Sona would speak into Ahri's mind once more, "Have you always been as tall as the tower?" she asked in a curious tone and Ahri seemed quite surprised herself about this question coming up. Though this also made her actually pay more attention herself and sure enough she would be standing there as tall as her own mid tower, and she could not see where her other teammates or the enemy team were at the moment so for now they would be safe. Even during this little conversation she would have jumped up a couple of feet and poor Ahri would now be standing at an astonishing thirty feet in height, she was even taller than a Lulu ulted Shyvana at the moment and it seemed the growth was not about to stop yet and she would be growing a foot every thirty seconds or something close to it, Sona would take Ahri's hand and lead them back to the nexus because she really thought this had to be checked out just in case, but by the time they reached there Ahri would giggle and picked up Sona in her hand and gave her a hug. "To be honest, perhaps my growth will help me out, when I am big enough I could just stomp on the other team, or perhaps eat them, or squish them under my orb." She said and gave Sona a giant kiss.

Ahri would sigh and turned to Sona with a little smile, "Standing around here is boring, I am gonna go out and get some kills with my new size here." She stated before she took off before Sona could really do or say anything more about the matter, but before Ahri went out champion hunting she ran through the jungle, stomping on the wraiths to get an instant kill on them and that left her with some gold plus that it accelerated her growth slightly, giving her another two feet per wraith she killed. Standing at closer to seventy or so feet tall it would almost be possible to see the tip of her ears while she was in the jungle, and Lulu would practically crap herself as she saw the giant sized fox woman come out and without even hesitating she lifted her foot and stomped it right down on top of her, cashing in on the kill and of course getting an extra five feet added to her height, and the poor AD carry would not be any luckier, Ashe tried her best to escape but Ahri's footsteps would be way longer than she could run and as she took a glance back to check all she was able to see would be Ahri's foot coming down for a double-kill. With a giggle the now well over hundred feet tall foxgirl would give the turret a good kick to easily ruin it before she went on towards the next turret at bottom lane, of course not without resistance since she met a Shyvana there with a rather nice build but if that would stop a giantess, well she is about to find out as Ahri comes closer and closer but this time instead of stepping on top of her like she had done with the others she would hold out her orb and with a giggle simply dropped it down on top of her, Shyvana yelped out as the giant blue orb came towards her and landed with a loud squish sound there, nothing left of the poor half-dragon now and Ahri would have free reign to the next turret, but why push this early? She could continue having loads of fun with her size, not just by getting lots of kills but there were other urges she could satisfy at the same time with the champions of the other team.

She would be waiting around by the inner turret now to see who would show up to try and stop her from continuing her rampage, not like anyone would be able to stop her now as she was reaching an even more gigantic 200 feet tall and of course still growing, the other team would be able to see her towering form from their spawning area even. There would be one brave little Blood Moon Akali moving towards her thinking she would be able to take her down, unfortunately for her Ahri just reached down and picks her up between two fingers, the foxgirl would be grinning at her now, "Hello there little Akali, you are gonna help me out a little bit here." She said with a giggle now before she stuffed the little assassin down between her breasts and pressed them around her some, the tiny Akali shrieked and squirmed around between the gigantic amounts of breast flesh that would be surrounding her at the moment, for the moment all Ahri wanted to do was to tease her.

With the tiny Akali safely stuck between her breasts she would start moving to the mid lane to see if she could find another enemy champion to play around with, and she seemed to be in luck since she caught a Lux out of position that would immediately get grabbed between two of her gigantic fingers and without as much as a hello the light mage would be moved downwards and underneath Ahri's skirt for a nice view of her white panties underneath, she would get an even closer look as she got moved towards the waistband that got pulled away by her other hand and dropped right into the panties there. Rolling down pressed between the skin of Ahri's sex and the fabric of the panties she would whine and blush quite a dark shade of red, she had never expected to see Ahri this close. The foxgirl would close her eyes and enjoy the moment of Lux squirming up against her pussy now, and it would not take long before one of her own hands would find its way into her panties so she could grind Lux more against the large wet lips and of course even starts pushing at her from behind to get her inside, not that it would be hard and Lux easily ended up inside the cave sized pussy and the finger following right after, she moved it in and out just a bit to get herself a bit wetter then pulled it back out so she could leave Lux to her new job as a little pleasure toy.

Now that Lux had gotten hers it was time to play some more with the Akali that she had caught earlier and stuffed between her breasts, she hoped she hadn't crushed her between the gigantic orbs of course and started digging into her cleavage with a hand to see if she could find her. After a little bit she felt something and plucked it up between her fingers, lifting the tiny Akali up from the cleavage and held her in front of her face, "Ok Akali, while Lux is squirming around in my pussy I will let you play some more with my breasts, not gonna trap you between them this time though." She re-assured her before moving Akali back down and this time pushed out her clothing a bit so she could easily place her in front of the right breast and of course up against her stiffening nipple, she did have to moan since Lux was doing a great job in her pussy at the moment.

This would be a completely new world for Lux though, stuffed inside a wet cave that seemed to be getting wetter every second she was in there, of course partly her own fault since she was the one moving around in there and actually pleasuring the giant foxgirl. She tried to make sure that her face never got completely trapped in the fluids in there as the last thing she wanted to do was to drown inside of the pussy, of course considering how it was steadily increasing with the now added nipple play thanks to Akali this would indeed become a hard task for the poor mage. Crawling further and further in for some strange reason she would eventually meet up with Ahri's cervix, closed tight of course and at least now she realized that she had been going the wrong way the whole time, but at least Ahri was enjoying herself as her moans could be heard through the flesh of her pussy walls.

She started doing something thing she would definitely regret later though, as she raised her hands and started to grab and play around with the pussy walls all around here, kicking against them and even biting every now and then, getting mouthfuls of Ahri's pussy juice as she went on and getting a good taste of it for sure. Ahri's moans became louder now however and she started to stumble around a little bit, her feet stomping down on top of turret as she started to step into the purple base area there, crushing everything in her path on accident at the moment and even getting another kill on the poor tiny Shyvana there before falling down and landing with her butt right on the fountain, the laser didn't do much more than tickling her butt at the moment and with a couple of movements she had ruined that too anyway, her hand moving down between her legs and she would stick a finger into her own pussy again, fishing a little after the Lux in there but in the end she just stared moving it in and out. For Lux this would be hell since the fluids began flooding even more than before and the walls would begin forcing them towards the exit and of course now Ahri's finger which would end up watching her in the end, with an even louder moan than before she pulled the finger out and orgasmed all over the nexus, completely covering it before she fell over and crushed part of the forest that would be around the battle arena.

Lux would be laying between a pair of giant thighs and in a pool of pussy juice at the moment and there would be even more dripping down on top of her considering she was still directly underneath the pussy. Raising an arm she tried to reach out and see if anybody would help her up and it seemed she was quite lucky since Ashe had waded through the cum to grab her hand and help pulling her out of the most sticky part of the pool. She was quite grateful for this, even going as far as giving Ashe one hell of a hug and a wet kiss on the cheek. "Thank you a lot Ashe, I thought I was gonna die there...Though I guess I would have respawned either way though...but I would have been feeding then!" She stated then tried to perk up to Ahri there. "Oh my god she is huger than when she put me in, no wonder it felt like the cave was getting bigger around me, because it really was." Lux said out in a frightened voice and she would grab Ashe's hand and starry moving with her to a much safer area. Now that they had escaped to their jungle they would find a place to sit down and relax, watching Ahri from afar.

Ahri had soon recovered from the orgasm and was about to continue her rampage around in the purple base, Akali would still be hanging onto her nipple and licking over it, it seemed she had gotten used to and even slightly enjoying doing this to Ahri now. Though her fun would be over now as she got pulled out by the giant foxgirl and lifted up in front of her face, grinning she would open up her mouth widely and the little assassin would be thrown right in, landing on the large tongue as the mouth closed up behind her. "Wait, no Ahri! If you eat me I won't respawn!" She yelled out, trying to save herself from the fate of becoming food, but it fell upon deaf ears as the foxgirl instantly swallowed her down, sending the girl down her throat and not long after she landed with a tony plop in the stomach. It would not take long for the stomach to start its digestion process either.